

NEW YORK SOCIETY GIRL TO WED TITLE

Announcement Made in London of Engagement of Miss Mildred Sherman to a Lord.

CAMOYS, A PEER, NOT RICH

Prospective Bride Is Beautiful and an Heiress; Father's Objections Overcome.

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Announcement has been made in London of the engagement of Miss Mildred Sherman, one of the richest and most beautiful girls in New York and Newport society, and Lord Camoys, a young peer of England, who came to America for the first time last winter to act as an usher at the wedding of his friend, Lord Davies, and Miss Vivien Gould.

Miss Sherman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Watts Sherman of this city. She and her sister, Mrs. John Carter Brown, are the only daughters of the late Mr. Sherman, who married Lawrence Gillpie, an American, and from time to time there have been rumors of their engagement to nobility. Miss Sherman's mother was a daughter of the immensely rich Mrs. John Carter Brown and is an aunt of Nicholas Brown, the "richest baby in the world."

The full name of the prospective bridegroom is Ralph Francis Julian Stoner, Baron Camoys. He is a son of one of the oldest noble houses in Britain. One of his ancestors was a chief justice under King Edward II and another, Sir Thomas Camoys, was created a peer by King Richard II. The name of the family of the British noblemen married to American heiresses are of recent origin.

Lord Camoys has been in the diplomatic service of his country and he is not rich. His ancestral home is Stoner Park, in Hampshire, New York. Two months after the Decies-Gould wedding and there were many stories about that he was engaged, or hoped to be to an American girl. One rumor was that he had courted Mrs. Burke-Roché-Batony, but this was denied. His attention to Miss Sherman, however, was observed in society and it was freely predicted that if certain objections of Mr. Sherman, on account of differences in religion, could be overcome, his lordship would win Miss Mildred.

Lord Camoys will leave England shortly to visit the Shermans at Newport. While he was in New York he became very much interested in the stock market and before he left he had intended putting in a branch office of one of the New York brokerage firms in London and thought he would be of service to Americans in London for the season who missed their little daily fling in stocks.

WOULD PUT STOP TO HASTY MARRIAGES

Methodist Conference Demands That Licenses Be Issued One Month Before Ceremony.

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 15.—The Indiana district of the Lexington conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, in convention at Scott church, here today went on record as demanding that the states of the Union adopt uniform laws providing that marriage licenses be issued one month before the marriage can take place.

This action was taken after an address on "Are the Mounds of the Dead Denying?" by Mrs. Carrie Ross of Indianapolis, president of the Woman's Home Missionary society.

"One of the worst evils," she said, "we believe, is the ease with which young girls can get married. In some states there is practically no barrier at the marriage license window. There is no pretense at discrimination between old and young, responsible and irresponsible. If the law required that licenses should be obtained a month before the wedding, the chances of illegal marriages would be lessened to the minimum."

CELEBRATION AT ST. DIE, FRANCE

Embassador Bacon Visits Little Town Which Rightfully Claims to Be America's Godmother.

By Associated Press.

ST. DIE, France, July 15.—St. Die is in festival garb today and crowds came to the city from all directions to participate in the exercises commemorating the naming of America in 1492. Robert de La Moignon, French ambassador to France, and M. Lebrun, minister of the colonies, arrived early with other government officials to participate in the programme which included, among other things, the presentation of historical paintings.

St. Die rightfully claims the honor of being "America's godmother," for in that little French town the name of the United States was first used in the year 1492. In this manner a name was given to the new continent.

The paintings referred to in the dispatch are lifelike portraits of Rigmann, Walckemüller and Baurin, who were the authors of the tract in which the word "America" was used.

After some delay a messenger was sent to their home near by and it was found that the future bride, while dressing for the ceremony, had fallen into a trance and her parents, who were waiting, were expecting the arrival of a doctor.

The young girl, who was of a nervous disposition, had "fainted," and all efforts could not awaken her. The case is not considered serious and the marriage has been postponed to a future date.

COLORED OFFICIAL TO ADDRESS EDUCATORS

Special to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Assistant Attorney General William H. Lewis has been authorized to attend the annual congress of the negro national educational association to be held in Denver. Lewis is a colored attorney recently appointed assistant attorney general and confirmed after a spirited fight made against him in the senate. The committee in charge of the proposed congress requested President Taft to have Lewis attend as his representative and the request has been granted.

Copper during the coming day or two. In Mexico we suffered practically no interruption so far as the revolution was concerned, except on two or three occasions, and for short periods, when the railroads were out of commission and we ran out of fuel at the Chihuahua smelter. I think that as a rule the property of foreigners was left alone and that at most mines and smelters there was not the slightest interruption. Everything is today as it was before the trouble and labor is plentiful throughout the republic.

Fuel for Nevada Con.

"At the Nevada Consolidated we are handling about 8000 tons of ore daily, which is yielding about 5,250,000 pounds of copper per month. There is no water and no labor trouble. On account of the late ill-advised action of various coal companies we found it profitable to adopt California oil for fuel at the Nevada Consolidated, and this has deprived the ill-advised railroad companies of hauling hundreds of thousands of tons of fuel from the Utah and Wyoming fields to our Nevada operations. And let me say that if the railroad and the coal companies make similar efforts in the future they are liable to see California fuel oil installed in all the great industrial enterprises in the Utah valley."

When asked if he meant that the Gardfield smelter might under such circumstances substitute oil for coal as fuel, Mr. Eccles smiled and said it might be possible.

DEMOCRATS TALK OF IMPEACHMENT

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Serious charges have been made against Attorney General Wickesham. The Democrats are going to probe them at once and some of the enthusiastic ones already are talking about impeachment proceedings.

Delegate James Wickesham of Alaska is the author of the charges against the attorney general. He alleged that Mr. Wickesham permitted, with a full knowledge of the facts, the maintenance of the Guggenheim coal monopoly in Alaska; that when evidence was laid before him of larceny, perjury and murder committed by the coal robbers, the attorney general made no effort to punish the offenders but actually removed from office government officials who sought to prosecute the guilty men.

Delegate Wickesham charges that when the matter became so hot that the attorney general had to act it was too late to accomplish anything, the statute of limitations having run against criminal prosecution.

Embarrassing to Taft.

The administration will doubtless be seriously embarrassed by the ventilation of these charges. The Democrats have built for a long time that Attorney General Wickesham was unduly friendly with the trusts, despite his vigorous prosecution of several big corporations. They have accused him of putting into the Taft railroad bills several sections demanded by the trusts, and of protecting the interests of the trusts by his failure to prosecute the steel trust, on the Stanley evidence, has long been a sore spot.

The Republican insurgents also hold to the view that Mr. Wickesham has been too lenient to the Republican administration. They have not forgotten how he tried to read them out of the party a year ago in his Chicago speech. The recommendation of Wickesham that Professor Wiley be dismissed is pointed out as in line with his general policy toward everything savoring of liberal or progressive government.

Denial by Wickesham.

Attorney General Wickesham emphatically denied today that he was withholding prosecution of Alaskan coal conspirators until the statute of limitation had run in their favor. He said that the statute of limitation had not run in the case of Captain D. H. Jarvis and John H. Bullock, alleged to have conspired to defraud the government by fake bids when the United States purchased coal for the Alaskan military establishment.

The attorney general said the case was now being investigated; that the investigation had been going on for some time and that if the investigation warranted a prosecution there certainly would be one. He said he was ready to furnish the house committee on judiciary any evidence, papers or documents on the case in the department of justice.

Jacob M. Dickinson, former secretary of war, was dragged into the Alaska syndicate scandal today. Delegate Wickesham, in a communication filed with the house committee on judiciary, Delegate Wickesham charges that Dickinson, while Secretary of war, received evidence similar to that submitted to Attorney General Wickesham, tending to show fraud in connection with Alaska coal contracts.

Secretary Dickinson did not acknowledge receipt of the evidence, according to Delegate Wickesham.

CHARGES MADE BY GIFFORD PINCHOT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—To erect terminal facilities in Controller bay, Alaska, would cost about $1,000,000, said Alfred H. Brooks of the United States geological survey, today, before the house committee on expenditures in the interior department, which is investigating the Controller bay lands.

The committee, which convenes Tuesday, may summon as witnesses Former Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot and Secretary of War Stimson to inquire into a declaration of Miss M. P. Abbott, a newspaper writer, that a map of the Controller bay district containing tracings of the Richard S. Ryan claims there had disappeared from the war department.

A map made since for the interior department showing the claims and proposed railroad promoted by Ryan, which is alleged to represent the Guggenheim interests, has been furnished by Secretary of the Interior Fisher.

The missing map, dated December 14, 1910, was shown Miss Abbott about June 1, 1911, she says. It is contended there was not time for the map to have been made from surveys in Alaska following the president's executive order restoring the lands to entry and that it must have been prepared on advance information.

In order that congress shall have complete maps showing conditions in the Controller bay, President Taft directed Superintendent O. H. Tittman of the coast and geodetic survey to make copies of the maps of the region in the possession of the government. The president spent more than an hour looking over the original this afternoon.

He is convinced that when the senate sees the government surveys of Controller bay, the extent of the water front and the length of the channel, it will agree with him that for one man to obtain a monopoly there would be next to impossible. Mr. Tittman probably will be unable to perfect the new maps before the middle of next week, so that the president's report to congress will not be made before that time.

ALL TRAILS LEAD TO WALL STREET

Special to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—John E. Lathrop, a prominent newspaper writer, who has made a close study and an extended investigation of the Alaska situation, contributes the following article for the edification of Americans:

"The Alaska Cunningham coal claims and Controller Bay stories are primarily stories of Wall street. Some of the details were worked out in Washington; some of them in Portland, Seattle and San Francisco. Each trail leads eventually to the financial district of New York City. In many instances the trail has been winding and tortuous, and every trail at some point has run through a subterranean passage, sometimes through Washington, but inevitably back to New York City and to the banking house of John Pierpont Morgan & Co., at the corner of Wall and Broad streets. Just across the street are the vaults of the New York exchange, and on the other corner the sub-treasury of the United States.

One Man Dominates.

"Every one 'down on the street'—that is, the financial district, knows that one man dominates credits on Wall street. This does not mean that that man is loved. He is bitterly hated. He is like the master wolf of a snarling pack, maintaining his leadership by force rather than by willing subjection. One of the most powerful bankers, head of a great concern over there, expressed his unqualified hatred for Mr. Morgan and his methods. He admitted that he dared not cross Mr. Morgan's will, and that while Mr. Morgan had not a dollar of interest, directly or indirectly, in this man's banking house, which is one of the greatest in the world, yet this great house dared not engage in any financial transactions upon which Mr. Morgan has put the ban. Do you begin to get the idea? Morgan dictates the finances of the country. The reasons are apparent if you will journey with me across to England. Time was when the name of Rothschild meant credit domination in Europe. J. P. Morgan & Co. are there now and matters are different. Financiers of Europe have reached a point at which they refuse to finance an enterprise in the Americas to which Mr. Morgan objects. Now we return to Montreal, and there we find Mr. Morgan owns the Sovereign Bank of Canada, and that that bank and all its branches operate agreeably to Mr. Morgan's desires.

Syndicate Methods.

"In military warfare the commanding officer often utilizes spies and sends out men clad in citizens' clothing for the purpose of deceiving others as to the purpose for which they go. It is precisely the method adopted on Wall street. It was the method adopted in the Controller bay case. The lawyers of the Morgan-Guggenheim Alaska syndicate knew in advance that the Cunningham coal claims would be cancelled. This is not to reflect upon the officials of the administration, because we all thought we knew it. No lawyer could read the record and doubt that the Cunningham claims would be declared illegal. And the syndicate got control of these claims, they would have dominated transportation in Alaska, even if they had not procured Controller bay. But, of course, it was desirable to get a footing in Controller bay, and they proceeded to get it.

When the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation began, the syndicate's plans to get Controller bay were well under way. Many of the details of Mr. Morgan's Alaska grab were left to Daniel Guggenheim and Stephen Burch and Mr. Steel, one of Mr. Morgan's attorneys, was general counsel for the syndicate. And yet, in the records of the interior department, are documents which pretend to establish that the Commission banking house, Probst, Wetzel & Co., was backing Ryan as a competitor of John P. Morgan's Alaska syndicate. The firm of Probst, Wetzel & Co. is so small among the giants of Wall street that many of the big men never heard of this concern. Relatively, this concern is a minnow, and Morgan & Co. a whale; the one a gnat, the other an elephant; the one a pussy cat, the other a lion. The public is going to learn a lot about this great drama, and, if it studies aright, it will find in the developments of this case will illuminate politics, finances, industrial, moral and social conditions in the United States. For the machinations of the Morgan-Guggenheim Alaska syndicate in Alaska are not sui generis; that is, peculiar or of its own kind, but are part and parcel of the general system in existence today."

ATTORNEY SCORES ALASKA DELEGATE

By Associated Press.

SALEM, Or., July 15.—"Delegate Wickesham of Alaska is angry because the Alaska syndicate would not employ him at $15,000 a year as its attorney and is now trying to get back," said Attorney John A. Carson of this city, special attorney for the Alaska syndicate, after reading the charges brought by the Alaskan delegate against Attorney General Wickesham today. Regarding the letter which was submitted as evidence intended to show that witnesses of the government had been controlled, Carson, the writer of the epistle to Captain Jarvis, said those witnesses, although brought to Juneau by the government, were not called upon to testify by the prosecution and their evidence was found by the federal counsel to be material to the defense. Naturally, he explained, the defense subpoenaed these witnesses and paid them. The government has sent different agents to Seattle, Alaska and elsewhere and has found that the conduct in the Hazy case was regular, said Carson.

Swan Peterson Under Arrest at Tacoma, Wash.; Several Mysteries May Be Cleared Up.

By Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., July 15.—Suspected of having murdered seven persons—Archibald Coble and wife at Rainier, Wash., on last Monday night; four members of the Hill family of Ardenwald. On a suburb of Portland, a month ago, and a little girl who was slain in a Portland lodging house nearly six months ago—Swan Peterson, who was arrested yesterday near Puyallup, was removed today to Tacoma by Sheriff Gaston of that city. Peterson answered all questions willingly. He admits that he was in Rainier the night of the murder there, but says that at the time of the crime he was asleep in the bunkhouse of a section crew where he had worked for a few days. At the time of the Hill murders at Ardenwald, he says he was in southern Oregon.

GOVERNMENT MAY BUY GOODS OF THE TRUSTS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Attorney General Wickesham has decided that it is not unlawful for the United States to deal with the corporations recently declared by the supreme court to be illegal combinations. The question came up in connection with contracts awarded to the Standard Oil company for a year's supply of oil and gasoline for the military department of the east. The attorney general holds that the corporations declared illegal combinations are so only in restriction of trade. The sale of materials by these corporations is not in itself illegal.

hallway, the bar resisting all attempts to force an entrance. In the meantime the occupant of the room had turned out his light.

Shot Takes Effect.

Then Detective Cleveland went down the stairs and as he did so Detective Ripley looked out of the window over the stairway and saw some one creeping along a very narrow ledge from the window of the barred room to the roof at the rear. The officer three times commanded the man to stop, but the man kept crawling on. Then Ripley fired two shots from his revolver, and Cleveland, who was on the ground below, said: "Who's that shooting? Don't shoot any more." He called to the man who had then reached the roof in the rear: "Stop!" Then he fired one shot in the air and a second shot that struck Loy just as he was sliding over the peak of the roof to the North side.

The bullet struck the Chinaman behind the right ear and he dropped without a word or cry, lying prostrate on the roof.

Other officers and a number of citizens were attracted by the sound of the shots, and a great throng soon gathered. Detective Cleveland climbed to the roof, a ladder and a rope was procured and the body of the wounded man was removed to the ground. He was covered with blood, and in the darkness it was difficult to locate his wounds, but it was easily apparent that his injuries were fatal.

Dies at Station.

The patrol wagon, which had gone to the station with the six men under arrest, was again summoned and Loy was taken to the emergency hospital, where Dr. C. M. Benedict treated him. Assistant City Physician Sprague being out on a call at the time. Dr. Sprague arrived later and was present at the time that Loy died.

Several couriers of Loy went to the police station while the doctors were working over him. They said that Loy was a Cantonese, who was for
